

THE HAVEN IS NEW NAME FOR THE HARWOOD PLACE

Miss Plier, a Nurse of Wide Experience Takes Over Sanatorium as Its New Manager

The old "Harwood Place" changed names yesterday, and with it, the management. The Haven, as it will be known from now on, will be under the supervision of Miss Plier, who is a nurse of much practical experience, and who has just retired from service at the St. Luke's hospital, where she was highly esteemed for her affable disposition and sense of duty.

The Haven is ideally located amidst beautiful palms on Central avenue and Virginia lane. It is within a block of the Indian School car line, and but a few minutes' ride from town.

So great has been the demand for a "home place" for those coming to Phoenix suffering from pulmonary diseases that Harwood Place—now The Haven—was designed and built. It is composed of a large two-story residence, where patients needing attention or nursing can have their rooms while staying over the grounds are numerous screen houses where the more able patients can enjoy the fresh air and comforts that are really home-like.

There is a large dining room in the main building where meals for all the patients will be served, and which will be the very best that experience has taught to be necessary in the treatment of tuberculosis. The utmost will be done to make "The Haven" the most up-to-date and most home-like of any such place in Arizona.

Miss Plier has already begun re-arranging the entire establishment, painting and fixing up in such a way that the old Harwood Place will

PHOENIX BEST PLACE IN KORRIK'S TRAVELS

Business Conditions and Climate Are Superior

After an absence of six weeks, Charles Korrick of the New York store, returned yesterday from the east. The greater part of the time was spent in New York. Mr. Korrick found business conditions quiet and even dull in the east but the further west he came the greater the improvement. Times were much better in the middle west but nowhere did he see so many evidences of prosperity as he found in Phoenix on his return. The weather here also, was much more pleasant than what he encountered generally on his journey. It was extremely hot in New York, 96 in the shade. That does not mean much to a Phoenixian when he is at home but it means much to him when he finds it in the east or the north. Mr. Korrick found more causes for thankfulness here than he saw anywhere else.

He was greatly pleased with the progress that had been made on the New York store in his absence.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AFTER NAPOLEON'S FALL

Increased Interest in Wonderful Corsican as Centenary of Waterloo Draws Near

"For Napoleon and France," George Kleine's latest wondrous photodrama, is most timely, as the nation's insatiable ambition sought to make ruler of the world is observing the centenary of the fall of the Little Corsican. Not with wild festivities, however. For the man who drained French resources and blood is now looked on as something of a demigod.

The day before the allied force, numbering 170,000 men, commanded by Blucher, the prince of Wurtemberg and Barclay de Tolly, had surrounded Paris and after a series of desperate conflicts with the French regulars and National Guards consisted by the students and many of the citizens of Paris, had forced a capitulation. The French were permitted to withdraw with all their arms. The crippled army limped out of Paris, and 120,000 of the allied troops took possession of the city. It was a triumphal march, in which the victorious Prussians were too ragged and battle-scarred to participate. Mangled cheers and jeers greeted the victors. The royalists welcomed the enemy as the forerunners of the restoration, and showered flowers upon the dashing Cossacks as they rode through the Faubourg St. Germain.

"Paris will not be harmed," was the reassuring word sent by the Czar of Russia. "It is not upon the French people that we are waging war, but upon Napoleon." And the king of Prussia added: "And not upon Napoleon himself, but upon his ambition."

Before the evacuation of Paris Napoleon's wife, the empress, and his son, the king of Rome, were escorted weeping out of the city to Rambouillet. But Napoleon, who was in the rear of the allies, did not know this when he heard the news of the capitulation of Paris. His first question was: "And my son, my wife, where are they?"

The downfall of Paris brought to the Corsican the full realization of his own ruin. He threw himself down in the road and hid his tearstained face. He was no longer an emperor, the master of Europe, but an adventurer—an outlaw—pursued by the nations and by fate. He tried to poison himself, but this attempt at suicide, like that in his youth, was a failure.

"For Napoleon and France" has historical and romantic events as its basic foundation, its charming narrative revolving round realistically spectacular battles and the machinations of a vampire of the French court to be avenged on a valiant young captain of the army of France. It will be the attraction at the Lamara Theater beginning today for three days.

ALBUQUERQUE ROUTE IN GOOD CONDITION REPORT

Present Sellers of New Mexico Auto Association Makes Another Statement on Ocean-to-Ocean Road

The following is a summary of the latest road conditions on the ocean-to-ocean highway compiled by the New Mexico auto association.

HUTCHINSON, Kans., May 28.—Road conditions still good on the new Santa Fe Trail through Kansas. There have been quite a few small rains but not enough to affect the roads for more than a day at a time.

H. H. TAYLOR, WAGON MOUND, N. M., May 27.—Entire road open from Raton south through Mora county, except crossing of Mora River at Watrous. Owing to numerous complaints of overcharge for pulling autos across Mora river, at Watrous, the county officials of San Miguel and Mora counties have employed a team to be at the ford from seven o'clock in the morning until six in the evening to pull autos free of charge, until the completion of the bridge, now under construction.

J. FRANK CURNS, E. LAS VEGAS, N. M., May 23.—Recent rains did no permanent damage to San Miguel county roads and the drags restored them as soon as they were able to work. All roads that have been gravelled were in perfect condition all through the rains. Tourists traffic uninterrupted. New culverts will be added where shown to be needed by the storm.

R. J. TAUPERT, SANTA FE, N. M., May 24.—The Ocean-to-Ocean Highway from Raton by French, Maxwell, Springer, Las Vegas, Pecos, Glorieta, to Santa Fe in good shape.

J. A. FRENCH, State Engineer, ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., May 29.—Road from Santa Fe to Carthage in good condition.

D. K. B. SELLERS, CARTHAGE, N. M., May 27.—The culvert referred to last week has been out for almost a year, compelling the cars to make a very slight detour. However, the first time I can get a car to take some men out, will have this repair made.

PAUL STACKHOUSE, MAGDALENA, N. M., May 27.—Road from Socorro to Quemado in splendid condition.

J. S. Macintosh, QUEMADO, N. M., May 27.—Road from here to Springville in good condition, with the exception of crossing at Dry Lake, twenty-one miles west of here, which was quite muddy. However, no rain for past several days and is now drying up nicely.

ANASTACIO RACA, SPRINGVILLE, ARIZ., May 25.—Road to Globe in good condition, work now going on. Road to Holbrook in good shape. A new crossing has been made over Milky Wash and is now easy to go through.

LAMARA THEATER

Remington Typewriter Company

A fitting climax to the opening of the Panama Canal will come with the great Exposition at San Francisco. The plans are complete. The beautiful de luxe Booklet of the Exposition is now ready.

A big question confronted the Exposition authorities: "How shall we put this booklet into the hands of intelligent people—everywhere?"

The problem was as big as the world's map. Various methods were considered and discarded.

Final judgment pointed to this most appropriate and logical way:—The Remington Typewriter Company was selected as the official distributor. Why?

—Because the Remington Typewriter Company is known wherever men communicate with each other in written language.

—Because the 658 Remington offices which dot the earth, are supply stations for the most remote points in the two hemispheres.

To indicate further its belief in the Remington Typewriter, the Exposition management will type all its official letters on Remington machines. For the use of visitors, hundreds of Remingtons will be installed in the Exposition grounds.

You will do well to get a copy of this beautiful booklet which, in accordance with our arrangement with the Exposition, we are now distributing free.

Call at our local office and we shall be glad to give you a copy.

SAVOY WAS "DARK" FIRST TIME LAST NIGHT

Removal of Theater Building Stopped By Injunction

For the first time in three years, the Savoy was "dark" last night. Its gloom was shared by the stands and shops in the Savoy building, whose light seems to have been dependent upon that of the theater.

The closing of the Savoy was the result of a sudden turn yesterday afternoon in the litigation of P. Minor against J. Adams, the lessee and late owner of the building.

Suit was started some weeks ago by Minor against Adams, brought under the lease, which was to run for a term of five years but might be terminated by the lessor at the end of three years on giving proper notice and on the payment of $1,000.

This notice was given and this tender was made and when the one was not accepted, suit in ejectment and for damages was begun. The plaintiff was ordered to have possession of the property but the judgment was not quite satisfactory to either side.

Yesterday morning an order of ejectment was issued and Sheriff Adams started with a paper to be served upon Brought. On his way he was overtaken by Deputy Sheriff Woolf with the information that Brought was preparing to file a bond in appeal and the sheriff, acting under instructions by the court, returned. Later in the day word was received that Brought had begun removing the building piece meal. An injunction was hurriedly sworn out and the dismantling of the building was stopped. Marion McCann, representing the owner, was left on guard last night.

A day or two ago the building inspector served notice upon Mr. Brought that certain changes would have to be made in the wiring of the building to prevent the electrification of the structure, which is wholly of iron, even the roof being supported by iron columns. This work had been begun.

RATHER A SHERIFF THAN TO BE GOVERNOR

Jeff Adams Resists the Importunities of Friends

It is not a fact that Sheriff Jeff Adams will be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, though he has been importuned to go before the people in the primaries. These appeals have so far come from Yavapai county. One citizen said that he was a member of a family in which there were twelve voters and that all of them would be for Adams. A day or two later another letter was received from a Yavapai man importuning him to become a candidate.

He anticipated one objection of Mr. Adams by saying:

"You may think that it's too long a jump from the sheriff's office to the governor's chair. But you must remember that your predecessor in office, Carl Hayden, at one jump landed from that office to a seat in the house of representatives."

"You have before you also, the illustrious precedent of Stephen Grover Cleveland, who from the shrievalty of Buffalo, New York, where his most conspicuous official performance was the hanging of a man, was elected governor of the state of New York. That was only a brief stop in his jump from Buffalo to the White House."

Still, Sheriff Adams gently but firmly declines to be governor and he begs his friends not to spoil a good sheriff in trying to make a chief executive of the state of Arizona.

FINANCE AND MARKETS

(Associated Press Dispatch)

NEW YORK, June 1. — Missouri Pacific affairs hung like a cloud over a dull and uneven stock market. This being the final day for action respecting the $25,000,000 note extension plan unusual interest attached to the situation because of its relation to other properties similarly involved. The directors were in session the greater part of the day, adjourning for a brief recess when assurances were given out that the road's embarrassment probably would be overcome. The stock fluctuated feverishly, and 4 per cent. bonds were strong, but the remainder of the list moved sluggishly within narrow limits, save for a few specialties which rose moderately. New Haven repeated last week's performance in turning suddenly heavy toward the end, and St. Paul also fell a point. There were other deterrent factors, such as another gold export engagement, the action of the United States senate in referring the inquiry into the New

REALTY MEN DISCUSS LICENSE ORDINANCE

The new license ordinance was the principal subject of discussion at a called meeting of the Phoenix Realty board held last evening at the board of trade. While no definite action was taken with relation to the ordinance, it was gone over carefully and several features were taken up and discussed, especially those relating to manufacturing and other enterprises which it is the desire of the board to attract to the city. After an informal discussion of similar ordinances it was decided to hold a meeting at an early date, at which the matter will be taken up more fully, with a view to suggesting certain changes to the commission relative to the ordinance.
